WELCOMING NEW ARRIVALS TO THEIR FOREVER HOME

ROSE LAID A CLUTCH

Rose has tried to lay a clutch twice before and nothing materialized, but it became very clear to us that she REALLY wants to be a mommy. One day, she escaped from the coop and tucked herself into the tree row. We knew that she was going to be laying a clutch because she escapes every time she attempts to have little ones. To our surprise, several weeks later in the spring she hatched 5 baby turkeys! It was quite unexpected, but they have been a delight with their antics. Their favorite thing is to eat fresh veggies in the morning.

NEW BABY CHICKENS

SUNNY THE CAT

Sunny showed up at HORAH on a warm day this May. We asked neighbors, but nobody knew him! He has got SO much personality and is now the #1 greeter when people come to visit. He hangs out with the chickens and turkeys where he has honed his mousing ability. Welcome, Sunny!

PONIES: MOONLIGHT & HUSKER

HORAH adopted several baby chickens from a local feed store. The chicks were old enough that the store thought that they wouldn't be able to sell them. Rest assured, we have room for them! Ameraucana chickens are also called Easter Egg chickens because they lay blue green eggs. The breed was brought from Chili in the 1970s where the name was Araucana. In that same light, perhaps we should call them HORAHraucana?

These little guys arrived in April. Their hooves had been severely neglected. They were turned up like pixie slippers. Luckily, a very skilled farrier has got them on the road to what we expect to be a full recovery. They were very shy at first, but now come right up to enjoy the attention they get from company. 31 year-old Jetson has done an excellent job of socializing them. Jetson thinks they are his ponies, and Moonlight and Husker seem to think the same thing! Too cute!
